DETAILED ACTION

Withdrawal of Allowability

The indicated allowability of claim 12 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Roberts. Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, 6, 7 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(b) as being anticipated by Roberts (US 4,862,535).

Regarding claim 1, Roberts teaches an external change aid comprising a changing mat (100) having a planar side having areas comprising engaging means (115) and areas not comprising such engaging means, said engaging means (115) being adapted to engage with and hold portions of an absorbent article (200) adapted to be worn externally on a lower torso of a wearer and having fastening means (220, 222), the engaging means (115) being adapted to engage with and hold the portions of the absorbent article (200) while the fastening means (220, 222) is used to fasten the absorbent article (200) in place for wearing or while the fastening means (220, 222) is unfastened for removal of the absorbent article (200) and thereby assist in the respective application or removal of said absorbent article (200) when so engaged (Abstract; col. 2, lines 64 and 65)(figures 1 and 2, below).

Regarding claims 3 and 4, Roberts teaches pressure activated releasable engaging means

Regarding claim 6, Roberts teaches a planar side having a top 5% portion and a bottom 95% portion and only the bottom portion comprises the engaging means (115).

Regarding claim 7, Roberts teaches a foldable changing mat/pillow (100).

Regarding claim 11, Roberts teaches the engaging means (115) is adapted to engage with a landing member (230) on the absorbent article (200).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. § 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. § 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a).

Claims 5 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Roberts.

Regarding claim 5, the reference discloses the claimed invention except for the specific width of the engaging member.

Mere changes in size alone are not sufficient to patentable distinguish a claimed invention over the prior art absent a showing of unexpected result. In Gardner v. TEC Systems, Inc., 725 F.2d 1338, 220 USPQ 777 (Fed. Cir. 1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 830, 225 USPQ 232

Art Unit: 3761

(1984), the Federal Circuit held that, where the only difference between the prior art and the claims was a recitation of relative dimensions of the claimed device and a device having the claimed relative dimensions would not perform differently than the prior art device, the claimed device was not patentably distinct from the prior art device.

Regarding claim 12, the reference does not specifically that the landing means (230) comprises loops while the engaging means (115) comprises hooks. It does teach that hook and loop fasteners are used to attach these members.

At the time the invention was made, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to a person of ordinary skill in the art to place the hook member on the mat and the loop members on the diaper device because Applicant has not disclosed that specific arrangement apart provides an advantage, is used for a particular purpose, or solves a stated problem. One of ordinary skill in the art, furthermore, would have expected Roberts anti-reflux pillow, and applicant's invention, to perform equally well with either the hooks on the mat or the diaper and the corresponding loop material on the opposite member, because both would perform the same function of holding a wearer in place on the mat

Therefore, it would have been prima facie obvious to modify Roberts to obtain the invention as specified in claim 12 because such a modification would have been considered a mere design consideration which fails to patentably distinguish over the prior art of Roberts.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 13-20 are allowed.

Art Unit: 3761

Claims 8-10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7 and 11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
